
We ask you a few questions when we check in with you:

- How are you going working towards your goals?
- What's working well?
- What improvements might you make?
- What are the next steps?

If you tell us that you haven't made as much progress towards your goal as you hoped, we won't use this information to reduce or remove a support when your plan is reassessed unless your disability support needs have changed. How far you pursue your goals is up to you.

We'll also talk about your goals at your next plan reassessment view and you can change them at any time.
