Our website material is general in nature. We accept no responsibility for the accuracy or completeness of any material contained on this site.

Material on this site is made available on the understanding that we are not providing professional advice. Before relying on any of the material on this site, you should carefully evaluate its:

- accuracy
- currency
- completeness
- relevance for their purposes
- obtain appropriate professional advice.

Views and recommendations of third-parties, which may also be included on this site, do not necessarily reflect our views, or indicate a commitment to a particular course of action. In some cases the material may incorporate or summarise views, guidelines or recommendations of third parties.

Links to other Internet sites are for your convenience. These links do not constitute endorsement of material at those sites, or any associated organisation, product or service.

Inclusion of links to a third-party platform provider does not imply endorsement of the provider or non-endorsement of providers not included. We do not accept liability for any claims or losses arising directly or indirectly from services provided by third party platform providers.

Information provided in publications of the NDIA is considered to be true and correct at the time of publication. Changes in the circumstances after the time of publication may impact on the accuracy of this information and we give no assurance as to the accuracy of any information or advice contained.

Such material is assembled in good faith but does not necessarily reflect the considered views of NDIA or indicate a commitment to a particular course of action.

Where an official document such as a Ministerial determination or set of Program Administrative Guidelines is formally published on the website, for accessibility reasons it may be provided as a PDF document but also in HTML and Word formats.

In these cases the PDF version is taken to be the official version. To the extent that there is any inconsistency between the versions, the PDF version should be regarded as definitive.
