Consultation submissions

To successfully deliver and improve the NDIS, we need the input, expertise and advice of participants, their families and carers, providers, the disability sector and community.

Releasing the feedback we have received is part of our ongoing commitment to NDIS participants, providers and the disability sector for greater transparency.

See the Consultation submissions page to find individual and organisations submissions we have received in recent consultations.

When we contact you

From time to time, the NDIA may contact participants, providers and stakeholders through phone calls, SMS, emails, letters or other accessible formats to seek feedback on their experience with the Scheme.

Check the list below to see what outreach the NDIA is doing. If you are contacted by the NDIA in relation to your plan, the caller will always explain who they are and confirm your identity over the phone.

If you're worried the call is a scam, you can visit Scamwatch.

Calling about your plan during coronavirus (COVID-19)

There may be a range of reasons the NDIA or a Local Area Coordinator is contacting you at the moment.

Participant First: Help shape the NDIS

Participant First is looking for participants, families, carers and people within the disability community to share their views about the best ways to improve how we work. Receive a weekly invitation to provide feedback, including completing surveys, joining focus groups or taking part in interviews.

Some feedback opportunities are paid.
