There are now 400,000 NDIS participants.

That's 400,000 Australians, living with disability, who have an individual NDIS plan.

More than 150,000 of those participants are receiving supports for the very first time.

We're focussed on improving the NDIS so participants are supported to live the life they want, have more independence and be part of a more inclusive Australia.

The NDIS is not just for the current 400,000 participants, the NDIS is for future generations to come.
