20 December 2021

As part of our public data release schedule, we have published a report about the experiences of Young Adults in the NDIS aged 15-24 using data at 30 June 2021.

Working with young adult NDIS participants aged 15-24 to understand and measure information about them, their experiences with the NDIS, and the progress they are making with their plan goals, is an important part of our work.

This report covers:

- participant characteristics, such as their disability type, gender and background
- participant experience, such as how long they waited to access the Scheme, eligibility, leaving the Scheme, how they manage their plans, number of complaints and number of review requests
- supports and payments, such as how much support they have in plans, the amount used and payments made.
- participant goals and outcomes
- the experiences of families and carers
- results from the NDIA's Participant Satisfaction Survey (PSS).

Read the full report .

The NDIA regularly releases data and information about the NDIS progress. Releasing data to the public is part of our commitment in the NDIS Participant Service Charter to be transparent.

Related articles

Latest reports released

Date
1 October 2021

Data updated and new health and wellbeing report

Date
25 August 2021

New data reports show impact NDIS is having on young Australians

Date
28 September 2020
Read more news